COURSE DESCRIPTION
Legal, social, and ethical issues surrounding software development and computer use. Issues such as professional ethics, liability, intellectual property rights, privacy, security, and crime will be examined in the context of computer use. Students will read, write, research and discuss these topics. Students are expected to be able to do research on the Internet.

GRADING POLICY
1. CS105/ALL Homework (30%)
2. In-class assignments, class participation, CS105/007 & CS104/YOU Deep Thought essays, etc. (35%)
3. Final Exam (35%)<As noted above, this will take place in the 11th class week, during the normal class period.>

Communication:
All students will have accounts on WebCT and are responsible for checking it regularly and reading any messages or announcements from instructors, your TA or UPAs. The WebCT link is http://webct41.gmu.edu

Homework Assignments: These will be posted on the class website and must be submitted via email to the instructor for your section. Acceptable submission formats include PDF, plain text, StarOffice, OpenOffice, HTML; MS Word format is okay but I will have to convert to one of the previous formats...better you do the conversion.
Class Participation: This class relies heavily on class participation. Plan to attend all classes prepared to discuss reading and homework assignments and participate in class exercises.

 All assignments, including the homeworks, are to be individual efforts. Plagiarism is governed by the GMU Honor Code and will not be tolerated. Failure to use proper citations and quotations will be considered plagiarism. See the class website and/or your instructor for guidance. Instances of cheating will be referred to the Honor Committee. **

Read and adhere to the Academic Policies and Honor Code at http://cs.gmu.edu/students/hnr_cds.html
Read and adhere to the Responsible Use of Computing policy at http://www.gmu.edu/facstaff/policy/administrative/60.html

IMPORTANT NOTICE: None of the information presented in this course should be considered legal advice, nor should it be relied upon in making legal decisions. Each situation is unique and requires individual attention. Should you have a problem or concern requiring legal attention, you should seek specific advice from an attorney of your choosing.

There are three categories of assignments in this class:

- CS105/ALL: Assignments common to ALL CS105 sections (all CS105 students)
- CS105/007: Assignments unique to CS105/007 (all CS105/007 students)
- CS105/YOU: Assignment selected by individual student (with instructor approval)
