As discussed in class, amazon.com and google.com are making their functionality available, free-of-charge, as Web Services. Imagine a new application that you may create that uses this functionality. Describe this application. Your application has to include Web services from both amazon and google. Make sure to include:

1. The functionality of the application (include a list of all e-business functions provided) indicating which amazon and/or google web services are used to support each function.
2. A description of the potential market for your application.
3. The revenue model.
4. A description of the most important pages of your site (show pictures).

It is important to describe an idea that is not already supported by amazon and google separately.

Your answer should be typed using an 11pt font size and should be double-spaced with 1” in the top, bottom, right, and left margins. Please do not exceed five pages including figures.
